Bax energy Gibraltar

The green energy transition is transforming how Europe generates, stores, and supplies electricity. We work end-to-end across the electricity value chain - from supporting battery manufacturers in creating circular, recyclable batteries, to helping municipalities, SMEs, and business support organisations pilot energy action planning in their local economy.

The energy transition is rewiring the way local areas are powered. Electrification and renewable installation is leading to capacity shortfalls and severe grid congestion, with demand for grid capacity set to increase 60% by 2030. Across Europe, this is already leading to delays in the building of new schools, homes and hospitals for up to 10 years. ...
