Isle of Man infinity power business

Does the Isle of Man need a new interconnector?
Balancing the Isle of Man's electricity network requires stabilising power; this cannot be provided from sources which are reliant on the weather to produce electricity as these sources cannot be guaranteed at all times. In all scenarios the most cost-effective solution of providing this stabilising power is a new interconnector to the UK.

Does the Isle of Man import energy from the UK?
The Isle of Man currently imports all of its energy from the UK(with the exception of what is produced from Sulby). In all future models,the Isle of Man remains dependent on GB for the provision of baseload. This is the case even where capacity is increased by building excess renewables,as the stabilisation is still provided by interconnectors.

Will intermittent renewables be profitable for the Isle of Man?
It is unlikelythat the export of intermittent renewables will be profitable for the Isle of Man given the reasons outlined in this document. The Isle of Man currently imports all of its energy from the UK (with the exception of what is produced from Sulby).

Could the Isle of Man re-import electricity from an offshore wind farm?
With interconnectors the Isle of Man could re-import electricity generated from an offshore wind farm,allowing GB to manage the balancing. This would likely result in much lower costs to consumers. CFDs are not currently open to the Isle of Man as it is not part of the UK.

How will the electricity sector change in the Isle of Man?
As the uptake for electric heating and electric vehicles increases,the electricity sector will have to grow to meet future demand. The majority of the Isle of Man's electricity is currently sourced from fossil fuels.

Where does the Isle of Man electricity come from?
The majority of the Isle of Man's electricity is currently sourced from fossil fuels. The interconnector is a source of carbon neutral electricity on island and also provides a route to export electricity to the GB Market.
