Can a BMS run a thermal camera at 50c?
The BMS hardware can operate safely up to this temperature limit,so there is considerable headroom over the base current rating to account for higher ambient temperatures or temporary surge currents. In this thermal camera photo,the temperature has stabilized at 50c with a constant current of 175 amps.

i have paralleled 3 24v overkill solar BMS together with 3 sets of batteries @100AH and they balanced each other while i watched using blue tooth monitors went across all batteries.very cool. then i charged them all at once and it worked fine. gonna add another battery pack for a set of 4.

While BMS leads apart check wires with an ohm meter (lead on ring terminal and lead on unplugged connector) while wiggling wires to check for bad wire. Replace bad wire if necessary. If problem persists connect a volt meter clipped on the BMS wires only and see if the voltmeter reads the same as the BMS. If no solution contact Overkill Solar

Yes, the BMS has a built-in balancing function. HOWEVER no, it is not capable of doing an initial balance on new cells.. The balancer works by connecting a tiny bleed resistor to the cells with the highest voltage, and the excess energy in those cells turns into waste heat. This is a slow process. The intention is that the BMS can maintain the balance on the cells as they slowly ...
