So as a general rule of thumb, if you need the naval capacity Anchorages are just better than Solar Panels. The upkeep reduction and savings will exceed what the Solar Panel could otherwise produce. The power of solar panels (no pun intended) is giving you a way to utilize those starbase modules when you don"t need the naval capacity.

Management plans also explain what the objectives are for managing the area, and what the managers will do to help meet those objectives.. It is a requirement of the Environment Protection and Biodiversity Conservation Act 1999 (the EPBC Act), under which the Heard Island and McDonald Islands (HIMI) Marine Reserve was declared, that a management plan be prepared ...

Solar panels are generally not worth the cost on a starbase. If your economy is great in every other way then monthly trades of alloy"s can ride you over on energy credits until you can build ...
